Editorial

I quote from a poem used by the late King George VI

"I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year:
Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown.
And he replied,
Go out into the darkness
And put your hand
Into the hand of God.
That shall be to you
Better than a light
And safer than a known way."

Often we as students have reached out for a light in darkness, but have found that light only within ourselves. As many of us go into the world and others take one step closer to it, we must remember no one can give us that light. It comes from within.

I wish to thank all who have given of their time and talents in the publication of this book and especially Mr. Howlett who has been most helpful and always ready to offer suggestions for improvement.

Principal's Message

First of all I wish to congratulate the staff and students on their excellent contribution towards the extra-curricular programme of the school during the past year, the record of which is contained in this magazine. In spite of the shift system we have enjoyed a very successful year, and this has been due to the enthusiasm, leadership and hard work of staff members and students. For your participation, leadership and excellent contribution, I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation.

Periodically it is a good thing to look back over the years to note the progress, and to attempt to evaluate the changes and the work which has been done, in order to assist us in charting the course for the future.

This week a young man called at the office requesting an interview. He was a complete stranger to me until he informed me that he had been a Grade 9 student at the Central High School of Commerce on Sanford Avenue during the school year of 1949-50. He reminded me that in an Assembly that year I had urged them to draw-up a five or ten year Plan for their lives, and then work to achieve its objectives. At the same time I had invited them to contact me ten years later to report their progress. He said that the ten years were up, and he was reporting as requested. It was a story of struggle, of ups and downs, but of steady progress towards the achievement of his goal which was the ministry. He reported that he was now engaged in active church work as a minister, and still striving to complete and to improve his educational qualifications.

Space does not permit the writing of a history of Delta during those ten years. From the opening of the new addition in the fall of 1950 which changed Delta from a straight Academic Collegiate to a composite school with an enrolment of around 1700, there has been a steady growth in attendance which has reflected the development and growth of our East End Community. To trace this growth in attendance, to record the changes in staff, the academic and extra-curricular achievements of the students who have attended and graduated from Delta during those ten years, would fill volumes. But the story, if written, would indicate change, development and progress, we hope, in working out the Plan of the Master Architect of the Universe.

As the present students of Delta Secondary School entering a new decade--the sixties--have you a Plan for the future? Where and what will you be doing in 1970--a short ten years away? Now is the time to formulate that Plan, to set-up objectives for the next ten years, so that when 1970 arrives you can say you have achieved this or that in the sixties, and are now ready to plan for the 70's. For your Plan for the 70's will depend entirely on what you achieve in the 60's.

To-day let us Plan -- Work -- and Achieve.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The production of a Year Book of more than one hundred pages requires the services, little and great, of hundreds of students. Invariably, the brunt of the toil is borne by a very few capable and dedicated workers. In thanking all of our helpers, we wish to express special thanks to Mr. Waddell, Mr. Bulmer and the Office Staff for their understanding and co-operation; to Mr. Luke and the boys and girls of the Commercial Office, for their many hours of typing services; to Mr. Ahrens and his efficient Advertising Committee; to the Art Department for goods and services; to Mr. Brunatti, Miss Courtice, and Mr. Zack for organizing and conducting the successful sales campaign; and to students Ron Widdifield, Jim Strecker, Ton Colenbrander, and Ian Smith for their many labours.

Some Delta students learned their English this year from a doctor, a Doctor of Philosophy, that is, Dr. Montgomery explains that a teacher has a basic right to be termed a doctor, providing he has met the requirements. The term 'doctor' originates, of course, with the Latin word, 'docere', to teach. In the middle ages a doctor was a teacher in a university; however, the term, once applied to the professors of medicine, became applied to the practitioners of medicine, and hence, dentistry.

Dr. Montgomery received his Ph. D. last October 31 from the School of Graduate Studies in the University of Toronto for his doctoral dissertation on Alfred North Whitehead's philosophy of education. This thesis is a scholarly essay over 500 pages in length dealing with the aims and techniques of education from Greek times to the present, concentrating on Whitehead, whose rhythmic theory of learning has had considerable influence in the English-speaking world.

Before one can embark on a thesis, he must have spent at least three years in graduate work beyond an Honour B.A. There are also comprehensive examinations, written and oral, as well as reading examinations in French and German. Then the topic of the thesis must be approved by the department most concerned. Dr. Montgomery submitted his thesis to the Toronto Department of Philosophy after writing under the supervision of Professor John A. Irving, Head of the Department of Philosophy in Victoria College, since 1953. Dr. Montgomery has also studied at Cornell and at The University of Edinburgh.

According to Dr. Montgomery's interpretation of Whitehead's philosophy of education, there are three phases to the study of English literature: first, enjoyment, when the emotions are given full reign; second, precision, when detailed examination and concentration are required; finally, practice, whereby a new level of literary appreciation has been attained, a level from which new adventures in reading and writing may be embarked upon. If a student does not regard his education as an adventure in growth, there may be something radically wrong with his attitude to life, his philosophy.

We wish to pay tribute to Dr. Montgomery, who, through a fortunate set of circumstances, persistent effort, and the assistance of a most proficient research assistant, his wife, Mrs. Montgomery, Head of the Girls' P. E. Department, has been able to achieve this badge of academic distinction.

Valedictory Address

Samuel Cioran

Mr. Chairman, Honoured Guests, Faculty, Ladies and Gentlemen, Fellow Graduates of 1960. This is probably the last time we shall be assembled together in our Delta as the graduate class of year 1960, and it is possibly the last time we shall see many of the friends we have made in our Delta, but it is certainly not the last time we shall remember our Delta. And I say our Delta emphatically, for it is our school and a part of it is what we have made it.

We have added our own mark to this school in the years that we have matured here, and in the same way, she has lent a bit of her own flavour to our characters. It was in these classrooms that we spent the most important years of our lives - the years which will have moulded our personalities and future actions; and we never lacked the tools to accomplish our finished products here.

Not only did we have the opportunity of developing our intellects in study, but equally important were the opportunities of developing ourselves socially and physically with the extra-curricular activities. But these activities, whose memory many of us will always cherish, were not really what we can call extra-curricular, rather, they were actually part of Delta just as the classes were.

The variety shows, the social events, the athletic teams - these were all an integral part of what we call school. These were the outlets which gave us the opportunity to put our learning into practice; for our classes were not all intended to fill our minds with facts and figures, but the goal was rather to make us competent individuals, individuals who could think, act and produce when necessary: individuals who could find their way in our complex world.

These activities and the academic learning produced within us that fleeting and abstract quality we so often carelessly referred to as "school spirit". And this spirit is what we needed, for spirit is the essence of youth; it is the quality which meant the difference between winning or losing a football game, putting on a wonderful or a poor Variety Revue and which made the difference of our success or failure in school.

But above all, it was the rope which bound the students, the teachers and the school together. Perhaps now when we think back over the classes we attended, the functions and activities we arranged, we may in some small measure at least, begin to understand and appreciate the contributions of our teachers and our fellow students to our own lives. And let us not forget the teachers who have been, who are, and who always shall be the foundation of the school.

To them we owe an inexpressable gratitude, a gratitude that we are often slow to express openly but which, nevertheless, is still there. Too often we have not tried to fully understand, nor realize that they were deeply interested in us and had our concerns at heart.

And so for the graduate class of 1960, I want to express that gratitude to the faculty, to let them know that we can and do realize their patience and sacrifice. And the best manner in which I can say this, is simply and humbly - "We thank you sincerely."

But as Delta is now the door to the past, it is more so the gateway to the future. For now we have been prepared for the future and are ready to begin our real learning. Some will go on to further study, others will be ready for the world, but our learning is just beginning and we must pursue it unaided.

We are the ones who have carried Delta's lamp of learning in the years we have been here, and I believe we have done it successfully. Now the time has arrived to hand the lamp to the other students of Delta. Although we have carried this symbol of light and understanding our required lap, the race is by no means over, rather it is just beginning and there are many more laps in this unending marathon, and there will be greater obstacles to overcome than we have known in the past or the present.

But let us not be dismayed, let us not give up the race, let not the pain of effort make us fail, for the running of the course is the opening of our horizons.

There are no horizons set for us; the only horizons we have are those which we shall set ourselves and we can set our own, for we are the future and we are tomorrow's world.

But let us not forget that we had our origin in this school, with these fellow students, with these teachers, and with these institutions which we call Delta. And when someone asks us where we came from, let us remember our alma mater and say with pride - "I came from Delta."

What We Don't Need

My years at D.S.S. have been memorable---indeed, so memorable that I am compelled to send a few tentacles into the dark corners of my memory and recall a few of my pet peeves and good times.

I never did like the farce of school spirit perpetrated on the student body by the "Minority", who wanted the "Majority" to join or attend something, contribute to something, or buy something. Many times the majority was criticized for their lack of support for a school project - but the minority was usually to blame they were always there telling the majority off instead of letting the product or organization "sell" itself. If the product was good it would have sold well but if it was not, it shouldn't have been forced on everyone.

Second on the list are those wonderful "Election Campaigners" of the late '50's. In these the candidates worked, the assistants worked, but most of all, the school worked. There were big parades through the halls every day; and there were decorated cars and trucks, patrolling the streets around the school, before and after hours. If the candidates were unknown to you at the outset, it was impossible for you not to know them by the end. All this was for the distinct pleasure and privilege of having their picture eventually hung in the halls.

The next item from that far-reaching tentacle is those lectures. Lectures are fine; they are great, as long as the teacher sticks to the subject or even goes so far as to give a few pointers on studying. But tell me: who wants to listen to a teacher's life experiences for a complete period?

It has often been said that only the bad things are remembered. Can you actually believe that? Can you remember only those minor blots on the school's history, instead of the many honours that have been won in sports, music and other activities? I think that if you just sit back, relax, and try, you will be able to remember thousands of enjoyable and wonderful events from your life at school. There are many things we don't need--but let us not include among these our memories of DELTA.

The Sands of Life

We are as grains of sand upon the Shore
Of life. We each have our place on this shore,
Minute, though it may seem, and each of us is
Purposely placed, to fulfil the Creator's plan.
As a grain of sand is disturbed by the lapping
Of a wave, momentarily upsetting its peaceful abode upon the shore,
So are our lives disturbed by waves of trouble and pain--
For waves and troubles come and go as the tide,
But there is consolation; and, even if only for a little while,
There is peace for both Mineral and Mortal.
But then at last, both are swept away by the Foreboding Wave of Death, into the Sea of Eternity,
Only to be replaced again by another.

You who have broken the band that binds men to human drudgery,
 Wild and free you ring your song;
 And man cannot but envy your absence of conventionality.
 Your writing is feverish; your dance is savage; your song, untamed,
 You walk possessed,
 And these are the footprints you leave,
 Your spirit in all men that know you,
 But I know yet another spirit in you;
 I see your searching,
 Your frantic searching for communication through love,
 And I believe you seek a place to call home
 And a little more beauty and meaning to life.
 Who have given me a band that binds me not to human drudgery
 But to a life full of living, not waiting,
 For I am learning your sensitivity and untamed temperament.

Majesty and Tragedy

There it was. The huge machine that man had hoped of fabricating. Its thunderous growl was heard for a radius of two miles. Its steam swept over an area of almost a quarter-mile. Night after night, day after day, year after year-it roared-unceasingly powerful, unceasingly beckoning other machines to meet its challenge.

It provided electrical power for the whole of what was once, very long ago, called the Niagara Fruit Belt. Presently this area is the location where "Atom-Pac" food pills are being manufactured. Again very long ago, the falls were an attraction for the newly-weds. Now that swift inexpensive flights to Venus are available, the honeymooners have found a much more interesting vacation-land.

Half of Eastern Europe, including the Soviet Union, has been swept into Infinity by the Third World War of 2278 A.D. It has been an accepted fact for some time that North America has only until 2287 to exist. The Cuban Prime Minister, Castro, committed a "mass suicide" by setting off five atomic bombs throughout South America when he heard of Khrushchev's defeat.

The cloud of death, or Strontium-90, is agony in its slowest and most painful form. It took just thirty-two I.C.B.M.'s to do their work of murder en masse, fired from Western countries forced to attack because of the great, aggressive, and powerful movement by Russia and Communist China to take over all of Germany.

But, still, the great Niagara continues to cascade over the 167-foot-high cliff. It then wanders, creeps, and finally rushes into the St. Lawrence River, eventually draining into the mighty Atlantic. And it will continue in its massiveness until the end of the world.

All In One Day

And this was a day when the world awoke, the sky sang and the mists were swept away. Oh, in my silent ramble what pleasures I saw! A tree bent toward another and told a joke - and they shook and shivered with laughter. A bird called to me while a bee nestled in a flower and revelled in his find. My face felt the soothing caresses of the breeze as it hastened along behind me. Then all I could see was the sun shimmering in its splendour of flames, and life seemed glorious and golden. My soul spread its wings and I wrapped myself in joy.

Norma Stipsits 13 G 3

In The Garden

The newly arisen sun gave light to a scene of horror. The airplanes had gone now but the shattered ruin of earth and man remained. The bombing had occurred during the night without warning and without reason, for this village made no reputation of its factories or munitions plants. In the middle of the small town stood the largest building--an orphanage, formerly a tribute to love and brotherhood. Now there remained but a mass of brick and wood.

From the early morning fog came a man, old and bearded, his apparel giving indication of much misery, his face a look of much sadness. He walked, gazing with watery eyes at the ruin on either side, yet with slow determination pushing himself to the orphanage. As he stopped before the sideless structure his observant gaze found a naked body carelessly and cruelly thrown amid the cold stone. Slowly his hands removed the rubble from the lifeless form, uncovering a crushed and broken child.

Deficately he picked up the child and started to walk past weeping mothers, past ruined homes, past fallen trees, past the heavens. There appeared before him a garden and they entered. He came to a rock and he laid the child there, falling down himself hands upon his face.

That morning bold leaders spoke of conquests, and that morning rifles gleamed, and that morning the sun shone.

And that morning . . . Jesus wept.

Jim Strecker 12 G 6

I dreamed that I was made a king,
And I watched the eager world try
To bring me joy, in everything--
And every attempt quickly die.
Although I ruled o'er many lands
I felt empty and alone,
As my heart sighed its warm demands,
Demands which I could not disown
Oh, but now I know that nightmare
Was a blessing in disguise:
For though I long'd to wake from there,
It aided me to realize:
Even if I had command o'er the earth
Without you near, my life would have no worth.

Life At School

The exams are fast approaching;
The fatal day is near.
Fine brows are being wrinkled
To learn what we heard here.

The task looks quite impossible;
The end is ne'er in sight.
But still we try, 'cause try we must
And work into the night.

Each day we study harder,
As the dead-line fast appears,
To learn the French, that, we regret,
Has travelled past our ears.

Now soon the struggle's over,
And into class we go
So put down unto paper
The things that we should know.

The exams are now completed;
And results will soon come through.
So the agonies are over
'Till they show them to you.

You wonder if it's worth it,
All this study, all this pain;
But when the final score is in,
Your opinion is the same.

So when you stroll along the hall
And your class-mates yell to you,
"How much d' you get on your exam?"
Then you can tell them true.

'I got as much as I deserved;
The same applies to you,
And if you'd studied like I did
You would have 'flunked' them, too."

Bernie Heinze 11 G 5

Life

Life is like a pathway in the night,
Some grope on blindly - tripping or falling;
Others seem sure they know the way,
Then come to a fork in the road and say,
"Which way am I to go?"

I saw one man rush by me swiftly,
Worries showing on his wrinkled brow,
But he found out when he rounded the bend
That the path came to an abrupt end.

A group came by me following closely
At the heels of one who led,
But the leader didn't know
That ahead of them was an unseen foe.

The only ones who find the way
Along this dark and dangerous path
Are those who carry a glowing light
That shows them the difference twixt wrong and right.

Modern Art

Our pictures which are done in art
Are really nice indeed.
We all agree they are quite smart;
Folks say we don't succeed.

We hang them up upon the wall;
The public come and see.
The people can't make any sense;
They look and say "Oh, gee".

Others stand upon their heads
To see what we have done.
They puzzle out the blues and reds,
But they find only fun.

We try to make our art look real,
To please and not offend,
We work so hard with lots of zeal,
Alas! Abstract it ends.

Why Students Go Grey

You're awakened rudely by the clang of a bell;
Again there's that feeling you know so well,
You sink into the pillow, pull the sheets o'er your head,
Wishing to sleep; but you hear instead
Your mother yelling "You're going to be late;
You've less than an hour. School starts at eight."
You get out of your bed that's so warm and nice.
And step onto a floor that feels like ice.
You wash, and dress, and then get your books;
Comb your hair, and see how it looks.
You head for the door and without a doubt
It's "Eat your breakfast; don't go without."
Finally you leave; seems like 20 below;
The wind is howling. It's starting to snow.
You enter the school and remove your things.
Just then the warning bell rings.
You slam your locker and run down the hall;
If you're lucky, no books will fall.
"Open your books. Now, class will start.
Your chemistry formulas, know them by heart."
Onto the next class; it really is fiendish,
You get a detention for not knowing English.
Then to Algebra - those teachers of math!
If you don't do your homework, they're on the warpath.
Into the French class - no time to gab.
Open your text books, learn your vocab.
Now for P.T.; it's time to relax!!
"Feet on the floor; lie flat on your backs;
Twenty turns at the bicycle ride;
Roll your hips from side to side."
Your knees are weak, your back out of joint:
Oh well! That's beside the point.
Your hair is grey, not because you are old,
But the text books of high school have taken their hold.

Satisfaction Of A Smile

Costing nothing,
But creating much,
It enriches those who receive it,
Without impoverishing those who give:

Yet, happening in a flash,
Its memory often lasts forever.

None are so rich
That they can get along without it,
And none so poor
But are richer for its benefits;

Yet, it is but
A small thing in itself.

Creating happiness
In the home, it fosters
Good will in business, and completes
The circle of friendship everywhere;

Yet, it cannot be bought,
Begged, borrowed, or stolen,

Though it is rest
To the weary, daylight
To the discouraged, sunshine to the sad,
And nature's antidote for trouble,

Yet, it is something which is
Of no earthly good until given away.

And if it should happen
That someone you know
Should be too tired to give you a smile,
Why not leave one of yours?

For no one needs a smile so much
As those who have none left to give.

A Winterwonderland

The boy's gym was very bare;
But Delta students have talent's rare.
Many have the artistic flair
And others have a lot of dare.

Proceeding downward, equipment in arms,
They were ready and eager to work their charms.
Hard at work some began the drive,
As more with the same began to arrive.

Blue and silver icicles were all around the door.
And tables and chairs were scattered over the floor.
We covered the ceiling with big balloons,
And on the walls were silver moons.

So, with the help of all the fairies and elves,
All the supplies from familiar shelves,
And the music from the dreamy band,
We transformed the gym to a Winterwonderland.

The Fantastic Dummies

I had been in Miami, Florida, many times before, but never had I awaited so anxiously for a sight-seeing trip as I had for the one planned that Saturday. Saturday afternoons were very dull and I dreaded every one I spent in Miami. It was just the usual "hustle-bustle" down to the crowded beaches or to the main shopping centres--pushing through "pie-eyed" tourists all the way. But this Saturday would be different -- an unforgettable experience, I was told. I could hardly wait for one-thirty, when I would board the yacht.

I left my hotel at one o'clock and headed for the popular Silver Sands Harbour. I arrived at twenty after, and stood looking at the yacht. At one-thirty, I boarded it promptly to assure myself of a tour of the vessel before we departed. However, I was met by a tall, well-tanned man who showed me directly to my assigned lounge chair. My position towards the rear of the boat enabled me to see the glass bottom and the sights, comfortably. I was asked to remain here throughout the tour.

Soon all the passengers were in their places and wondering at the yacht and its motel-like qualities (actually, yachts like this one are common in Miami).

Finally, we got under way and, bored, I sat looking at the wonderful (?) sights I had seen many times. At this point I was convinced that I had wasted another fifty "bucks" on an ordinary cruise. I was soon to learn how wrong I was in assuming this.

In about an hour, we approached a small, swamp-like inlet I had never seen before. As we entered, a few of the tourists began noticing tropical fish and sea plants. I was not interested until one of the passengers claimed that he saw an alligator. The surroundings resembled the Everglades; so, I came to the conclusion that it was possible but not probable. As I sat staring through the glass bottom, a piece of raw meat appeared, obviously being towed by the boat. Seconds later, alligators (about four of them) began tearing at the meat. Suddenly, a dummy was shot into the group of "gators" (from a power chute under the boat). When the alligators ripped at it a red substance (representing blood) was ejected into the water. The alligators left only a skeleton. (This looked much like a real skeleton. I had never seen a real skeleton, but this dummy was exactly in proportion--it was unbelievable.)

As I left the boat that day, and at dinner, I could not help thinking of that dummy. I decided then to find out how and where these fantastic dummies were manufactured. Fortunately I was free the next night; I invited the owner over for dinner.

He arrived right on time and we ate dinner, touching lightly on his yacht cruises and his fantastic man-like dummies. I learned that his tours went out only once a week-Saturday afternoons at one-thirty - and always with a full passenger list. (at $50.00 per person).

After dinner I asked him about his dummies - their origin and "make-up." He tried to explain the blood capsules, fibre hair, glass eyes, and porcelain bones but finally invited me to have a look for myself. I was thrilled at the invitation and agreed to meet him one half-hour before his next excursion left. (at Silver Sands Harbour).

Well, it was Saturday morning and the captain, who was detained at his home, assigned a deck-hand to show me the yacht.

"Now, Mr. Henley, we'll go an' see the room the dummies are made in. Guess that's what you've bin' waitin' to see."

"You don't know how long I've been waiting for this. So let's go!"

"Here's the room at the end of the corridor. I'd go with you, but I got a job to do on this tub and I'd better get to it. The boys in the room know that you're coming; so they'll show you around."

"O.K. I'll see you later. Hey! This can't be the room!"

Open that door! This is only a closet!"

"Yea, with a false bottom and power chute. See you later, dummie."

The Assault

It was a dull, murky morning in September, as our boat pushed on through the choppy water, I could see the strain on the faces of the men. Even the old-timers had a taut look on their faces. Some puffed nervously on small butts; some stared blindly into the sea; and some, with heads bowed and hands clasped, were praying for their safety on this, a most perilous assault. Our destination was to be one of the Gilbert Islands. On the shore we could hear the shells from the ships taking huge chunks of earth out of the small islands with ear-piercing roars. Overhead, the planes were staging an all-out battle with the enemy planes. The planes bursting into flames contrasted with the dullness of the day and the solemnity of everyone's spirit. Suddenly a voice of authority told us to prepare to land. Grasping my rifle and ammunition, I lined up to leave the landing craft. The door fell and the men plunged into the warm water of the Pacific. We were greeted with a welcoming committee of bullets. We sloshed up onto the beach and prepared to make our first stand. It was then for the first time that I saw a man killed. As I looked at him lying there I made a solemn oath that I would make them pay for their unhuman murders. I vowed to slaughter every enemy on this island. My thoughts were halted as a mortar blasted away the sand ahead of me, throwing tiny sand crystals stinging into my face. It was like running on a tread-mill as I darted for the exterior foliage of the thick, tropical jungle. I reached the trees to find myself alone, because while I had stopped to see the unfortunate man slain on the sand the others had surged ahead. I proceeded with caution, stepping ever so carefully through the plentiful undergrowth. Suddenly my whole body was hurled to the side, and a terrible pain shot through my leg. Rolling over, I noticed that my leg was broken. I looked for my rifle and saw it was ten yards to one side of me. I tried to reach it by pulling myself along the ground, but found the pain unbearable. The crackling sound of a twig diverted my attention. The sight I saw when I turned around made me forget all my pain. It was an enemy carrying a long knife. I was immobile. All I could do was lie there and wait for this killer to murder me. It was a terrible way to die, at the hands of a filthy savage. As he drew near, I could see his fiendish face, his squinting eyes that I wished I could have gouged out. He stood above me, knife in hand, and looked. I felt my end was near. To my amazement he turned and began to cut down small trees. Returning, he grasped my leg and gave it a quick jerk. He was setting my leg. He took off my belt, then his, and strapped the wood onto my injured leg.

As I looked into his face, I saw no savage maniac, no murderer, no fiendish killer, but a fellowman. His eyes had a look of pity in them. He finished with my leg; then he dropped some rations on the ground beside me, and left as he came. I was found later and carried back to our newly made camp, where I was allowed to rest. My recovery left me plenty of time to think and try to find an answer for this rare happening. I came to the conclusion that God had given every man of every race a kind heart, and from a kind heart comes pity for a fellowman, no matter what the circumstances and no matter what his colour.

"Drum Corps"

"Drum Corps? What's that? Oh, I know your 'fabulous corps' but just what are 'drum corps'? I like music that has melody, as well as rhythm. I don't think I'm interested. What? Well, yes, I guess I could go, just once, to see what you're talking about. Yes, of course I mean it, I'll go, especially since you're buying the tickets. You must really be wild about these crazy things, spending so much money just to see a bunch of drummers parading around. Oh, there aren't just drummers in these things, eh? Well, why do they call them drum corps if they aren't for drummers? Oh, I see, just a name, eh? Horns? What kind of horns? Oh, I see, I think. Let's see if I can get this straight now. You have bugles....Oh, I'm sorry, trumpets. But they don't look like trumpets. Where are those things you push? Oh, they're just 'one-valve' trumpets, are they? A valve and a slide. Well, I really don't know just what you're talking about, but I'm trying, really trying. Well, yes, you have umpteen different kinds of horns, and all different kinds of drums. I always thought a drum was a drum; I didn't know there was any difference in them. And you have to tune them? Are you really serious? Oh, you are. Well, I can take your word for it.....I guess. Colour party? Oh yes, it's like in the army, isn't it? They carry flags. That much I understand. Now, what do you call the leader? A drum major? You mean like a drum majorette, or something like that? Oh, he just gives you the directions, is that it? I see. And you march? Well, of course, a band marches....a corps, I'm sorry. I didn't think the name made any difference to you. Okay, okay, a corps. Now, what's this 'M and M' you're talking about? Marching and Manoeuvring. Very simple. Well, I still don't know what you're talking about. Let's get this in detail. You start out on the starting line. That makes sense. Okay, so I'll stop trying to be funny. You start on the starting line of what? A football field? What for? Oh, that's where you do your marching. Well, yes, I guess that's okay if you really want to. Then what happens? You finish on the finish line. That also makes sense, but it doesn't tell me much! What do you do in between? Just march from one side of the field to the other? A concert? You play a concert? You're joking, aren't you? You aren't? Well, explain, will you please? You march around, and do all sorts of things, in all different formations, and then you end up standing still on the fifty yard line. Yes, I know where that is. Don't be sarcastic. I've been to football games. What do you do, all stand on the line, the same as on the starting line? No? Oh, I see, you all stand facing the audience. Then you stand still and play a piece or two. That's when you have your soloist come out, is it, to show off? Yeh, that I dig. Then you start marching again? Right over to the other side of the field. Yes, then what? After you get to the finish line, you turn around, in formation, and face toward the audience. Then you 'say good-bye'? You play a sort of 'farewell' number, is that it? I see."

"Well, just what does this all prove? Oh, there are judges, are there? What do they judge? Now, let me get this straight. There is at least one 'Field Brass' judge, 'Field Drum' judge, and 'Field M & M' judge. Then there is one each of 'General Effect Brass', 'General Effect Drum' and 'General Effect M & M' judges. As well, there are chief judges, timers, and tabulators. No, I don't think I want to know what each of them does, it's complicated enough now. I just have to know that all the judges are on the field except the 'G.E.' judges, that the corps loses one-tenth of a point for each mistake, and that the judges are very good at finding mistakes. They just walk along on the field, do they? What if they get in the way? Do the players move, or do the judges? The judges, eh? Yes, it must be fun, trying to 'run them down'...."

"Well, I said I'd go to one of these competitions with you, and here I am. I kept my word. Now, I sure hope that you meant it when you said that you would almost guarantee I'd enjoy myself"....."This is really exciting. All these people, just waiting to see these drum corps. They must be good. I get sort of mixed up whenever I try to remember everything you told me about the different instruments, and especially when I think of all the little things you can lose points for. Those judges must seem really miserable at times, eh?"

"Hey, look! Over there! Is THAT a drum corps? It is? Dig those fancy uniforms! Why no, I didn't think they were anything like that. I thought they'd look like Army uniforms, or something along that line. I must remember just what they look like, so I can tell the kids. Let's see, now. White silk shirts, black pants, white shoes (I bet they're awfully hard to keep clean. After all, that field is sort of dirty). What do you call those hats? Shako? Is that what they are? They look a little bit like those hats you see army officers wearing in the movies about the old west. These are really sharp looking, though. They're sort of a dark grey, but with a pearlized finish, black trim, and silver chain going around the hat, and under the chin. There's a big white plume on top of the hats.....or shakos.....too. They really look good. Well, even if I don't like marches very well, I guess it's worth it just to come and see these guys. They look about ready to begin. There, the drum major is walking out in front"..."he stopped"..."Oh, say, dig that fancy salute! He sure didn't learn that in the army. Now, he's turning around, his hands are up"...."and"...."away we go."....."Hey, are they ever powerful! You can hear them really clear, even though they are a long way away....." "What the....!"....."You know what that sounds like that they're playing?"....."It is? Around the World....."From the motion picture, Around the World in Eighty Days. And what's this"....."I see the Brazilian flag, and that's."....."Brazil....." "That's the name of it. Boy is that ever a swinging piece!"....."Listen to that"...."They really sound Chinese, now. Chinatown"...."That's what it is. And Land of Hope and Glory 'America, listen to that! None of them sound like -marches. So Nice to Come Home Too'...."Well, I wouldn't have believed it. All those men playing at one time, and it's still so nice and soft, and smooth"....."All those pieces from different countries"....."That's what you called their theme, isn't it? Canada's Marching Ambassadors"....."Oh, and listen.."....."Canadian Sunset"....."Oh boy, were they terrific! Are all the others that good? I sure think I'm going to enjoy this"....."Here comes the next corps. Okay, I'll be quiet now and let you listen to them".....

 "I don't want to miss a thing either."

L'Embarras d'un Chapeau,

C'était mon anniversaire de naissance et j'étais assis sur mon porche de devant en attendant le facteur. Ma tante Marie avait écrit qu'elle m'envoyait un paquet. En effet le facteur est arrivé avec le paquet. Je l'ai pris et je suis monté en courant à ma chambre pour l'ouvrir. Je ne pouvais pas croire à mes yeux. Le paquet contenait un chapeau d'été, et je venais d'acheter une nouvelle robe de soleil. Cet après-midi je suis allé au cinéma, en portant mon nouveau chapeau et ma robe neuve. Je me suis senti très embarrassé parce que tout le monde semblait me regarder d'une manière particulière. Quand je suis rentré à la maison ma mère m'a regardé d'une manière singulière aussi. Je me suis assis et j'ai écrit à ma tante Marie un billet de remerciements.

Quelques jours plus tard, j'ai reçu une lettre de ma tante qui m'a dit que ce qui avait semblé être un chapeau était vraiment un sac-à-main d'été et que les deux ganses à l'arrière étaient les manches du sac-à-main.

Im Frühling

Gott zeigt uns in dem Frühling
 Die Wunder seiner Kraft;
 Er lässt die Vögel singen
 Und hält die Brise sanft.

Die Blumen und die Bäume
 Malt er mit Farben rar;
 Die Luft füllt er mit Tönen
 Melodisch, süß, und klar.

Wie kann man Gott verleugnen?
 Wie kann man so blind sein?
 Im Frühling, ja, im Frühling
 Zeigt Gott den himmlisch? Schein.

AUTUMN DAZE - OCTOBER, 1960

This was the first of the many successful dances arranged by the Social Committee. With the warm personality of Jim Small as M. C., the newness of the school year and the bright fall atmosphere created by the decorations, this was completely enjoyed by everybody in attendance. Multi-coloured paper leaves provided a canopy top for the M. C. stand, and large branches gathered from a nearby woods provided realistic tops to the black and brown crepe paper-covered tree trunk forms. Large murals depicting the different farm crops harvested during the summer covered areas of the gym wall. The refreshment booth was transformed into a mock sunflower garden. The dance was a complete sell-out, giving the Social Committee a good start towards further dances.

SADIE HAWKIN'S DAY DANCE - NOVEMBER, 1960

Pigtails, patched-up blue jeans, straw hats and freckles changed some Delta girls into Dogpatch-like characters. A few boys donned beards, old hats, coveralls and boots. The disc jockey was Jim Small, who once again conducted a programme which added up to another enjoyable evening. Of course no Sadie Hawkin's Dance would be complete without Marryin' Sam, this year in the person of Bill Stirrup. "Sam" in his black high hat, marryin' coat, and old fashioned glasses, supplied "rings" and "certificates" after the "ceremony". The decorations consisted of bales of hay, corn stalks, Dogpatch character murals, pumpkins and orange and black streamers. The refreshment booth became the entrance to a barn and a very popular place because of its kickapoo joy juice on sale. The Camera Club took pictures in order that we may remember what a wonderful time we had.

SANTA CLAUS SWING DECEMBER, 1960

C. K. O. C.'s Randy Ferris took over the record machine at this fast-moving dance and he did an excellent job to further encourage the Christmas spirit in everyone. Red and white streamers across the ceiling and two twelve-foot pine trees made the gym a cheerful place that night. The trees had an old-fashioned look with their paper bells, popcorn strings, multi-coloured lights, and sparkling tinsel. Bill Stirrup acted as Santa Claus and came in with a great noise of bells, "ho ho ho's", and "Merry Christmas". After Santa arrived and was seated in his place of honour, it became quite a challenge to decide whether Santa Claus or the mistletoe was more popular and attracted the larger crowd. The dance was a great success and everyone had a good time.

AT HOME DANCE - JANUARY, 1960

The theme for this year's At Home was that of a winter ice palace of blue. And blue the gym was, with over four thousand blue balloons and one thousand white balloons that made up the false ceiling. Large blue and silver tin foil ice peaks surrounded the bandstand, where Al and Jim Roll's group supplied the wonderful music, making this truly a night to remember. As the couples danced around the gym, many comments were made about the beautiful blue and white snowflake, guiled-edged murals and large white pillars on the walls. The teacher's corner showed a display of blue and white ice peaks coming through the balloons nearly to the floor and others from the floor up. Shimmering snowflakes, also of silver and blue, rotated in the midst of the ice peaks. Dancing was from nine to one.

At about one-thirty A. M. the happy couples departed, the now not so clean red carpet was rolled up for another year, and the At Home had once again fulfilled its purpose as the loveliest, most pleasant dance of Delta's school year.

The World Affairs Club

This year saw a new club entering into activity at Delta. Under the guidance of Mr. Eatock and Mr. Charlton, we set out to learn about the modern world in a friendly and informal way.

Meeting Thursdays in the Boys' Health Room, about 25 students have seen films dealing with prejudice and discrimination, such as "Black and White in South Africa", and have heard from such speakers as Mr. Wong, who explained the balance of power in the Far East. Many meetings involved "heated" discussions, as students expressed differing views on situations in Cuba, Laos, and the Belgian Congo.

With the aid of the Red Cross Committee we arranged the adoption of Cheung Kai Sing in Hong Kong. We hope that this project will be carried on again next year.

Omnia

The fine standard of Omnia which began in 1959 was maintained this year, much to the pleasure of the 800 regular customers. Unfortunately, there were many problems and failings to contend with, which never were solved.

In producing a newspaper such as this, time was an important factor, as shown by the third edition which took three solid days to prepare. It was obvious from the start that no member of the staff could spare this great length of time, and therefore, the periodic regularity of publication was lost.

As usual, another problem was to interest a majority of the students and thereby increase sales to a reasonable figure. However, the twisting of arms was not approved and two-thirds of the school economized.

Although solutions were never found, there were three relatively successful issues before Christmas. The first dealt chiefly with Delta's favorite topic - school spirit. As added features, school uniforms were discussed; and for the sports minded, there was an interview with N. H. L. star Murray Oliver.

The second edition continued the "feature story" idea and gave an account of Delta's adopting a foreign child. With interviews being the fad, Diane Barnes and Jack Petrie presented interesting articles on Marilyn Cantor and hit-parader Bobby Curtola.

Then came the Christmas edition. Much to the surprise of everyone, including the teacher-counsellor, this edition more than doubled its former size to forty-four pages. This caused the price to increase to twenty cents; student protests to grow; and the sale of milk and crackers to rise. Among the many feature articles were an interview with the Travellers, a Canadian folk-singing group; parts of the Constitutional revision; an article on Juvenile Delinquency, which received praise on television from Norm Marshall; interviews with Tommy Sands and Grandpa Jones; and a heated debate on student government. The pictorial division also boomed, with eighteen pages in that section.

The Omnia staff, which, all told, came to a hundred, had Jim Strecker as editor, a triumvirate of assistants in Dianne Barnes, Sylvia Adams, and Michele Bar; Mary Popovic keeping proper account of the deficit in her position as treasurer; and Secretary Joan Socher recording the minutes. Three of the hardest working people in the crew were Photographic Editor Ron Widdifield, who toiled fiendishly all year; Artist Merle "Salvador" Moorhouse; and Lay-out man Chuck Koppang, alias Kuck Choppang.

In the form of feature columnists there were Steve Curtis, Platter Chatter; Les Falk and Zara McMillan on Sports; Marlene Pope and Audrey Bourassa on the Survey Beat; Lucille Yasinski and Tom Laurie doing the Spiritual work; Wayne Madden on World Affairs Club; and many others who did a wonderful job.

There were no *Omnia*s published between the Christmas holidays and Easter examinations, as school work finally won a battle with extra-curricular activity. However, our teacher-counsellor, Mr. Wong, spent many a day planning for the future editions with various ideas on how to save money, how to improve the paper, and, of all things, how to make money. The results of his and the revised Omnia staff's work were seen after the exams.

Thanks to all who helped with the Omnia this year.

Delta School Choir

The Delta School Choir, under the direction of Mr. Westall, has been enjoying another full year of activities. During December a vocal group from the choir took part in the services at St. Paul's United Church. Also in October an Ensemble participated in the Home and School Meeting. In November, the girls' section of the choir took part in the Eisteddfod held at Central Secondary School and were very successful.

The choir has made frequent appearances in the auditorium, and have had the chance to let the students of Delta listen to the music that we sing for other schools and in competitions. The choir had the pleasure of taking part in the commencement held in October. This meant a lot to some of the graduates who had been in the choir during the past years.

At the time of this writing, the choir is in the midst of preparing for the April Kiwanis Festival held in Hamilton and also in the planning of a trip to Detroit, passing through London and Windsor on our way.

We hope to include this year visits to other schools in Hamilton, such as Central Secondary School and some public schools.

On our late April agenda is the Choir and Band Concert which will include music from South Pacific and great masters such as Bach. Officers for the year are: President, Phyllis Wingfield; Vice-President, Frank Kovacs; Secretary-Treasurer, Shirley Bratina.

Choir Executive

Frank Kovacs, Vice President; Carol Read, Social Rep.; Mr. Westall, Teacher Counsellor; Phyllis Wingfield, President; Shirley Bratina, Secretary-Treasurer.

Music Committee 1960-61

The Music Committee had a rather bad start this year as only one office was filled, that of the chairman. But as the year progressed the committees of the Concert Band and the Choir came together under Judy Liscombe, to work in harmony.

Since there was no Annual Production, more time and effort went into preparations for the Annual Concert in May. The Concert in May of '60 was very well attended, and parts were recorded by CKOC and broadcast at a later date. The Concert Band and Choir also made a recording "Music from Delta 1960", which is of a very high quality and is still available in the Bookstore. The trip to Erie, Pa., in May of '60 was a rousing success, and the two organizations are looking forward to their trip in May of '61.

As there was no Bugle Band this year, only the Choir and Concert Band were affected by this committee. With the experience gained in running dances in 1959-60, we are looking forward to sponsoring a dance this spring to help cut expenses for our trip.

Thanks should be extended to Mr. Westall and Mr. Ward, our two teacher counsellors, and to all the others, both students and teachers, who have made this year, 1960-61, a memorable one for Delta's Choir and Concert Band.

Members of this year's Music Committee: Chairman, Judy Liscombe; Choir Reps., Phyllis Wingfield, Shirley Bratina; Band Reps., Bob Ashton, Don Buntain.

Stage Committee

The Stage Committee consists of ten boys in the Shop and General courses in Grades nine to twelve. It is extremely versatile, and is associated with most other committees.

Besides regular Auditoriums, we run the projectors; wire up lighting systems for Dances; hook up the P. A. system for football and basketball games and dances; and maintain all the equipment in good running order. In fact, we never know what we are going to be asked to do next. I like to think of us as the "Ways and Means Committee."

Some members of the Stage Committee have other activities. We have a B. A. C. and social committee representative, while others are on the basketball, football and hockey teams. We are really a diversified group.

The boss (supposedly) is the chairman, John Tierney; the manager is Bruce Meldrum; the Chief Adviser is Pete Tarvainen; and the Teacher Counsellor is Mr. A. Woods.

The Stage Committee is a seldom seen, almost unknown group, but in most activities you can be sure we are on the job behind the scenes.

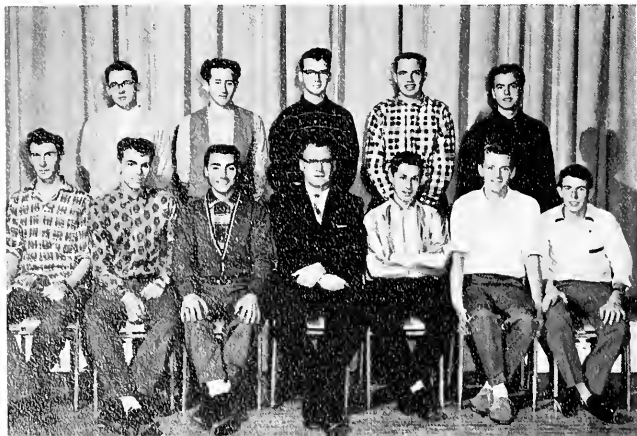

The Del-Rods.

The Del-roads Car Club is the most recent addition to the clubs of the school. The teacher counsellor, Mr. W. Davies, was the originator of the Del-roads. The new executive has Jack Brokenshire as President, and Richard Simpson as Secretary-Treasurer.

The motive behind the club is to try to promote better relationships, not only for the school but also for all teenage drivers. The club will practice basic driving skills for the entry into the Safe-Driving "Road-a-o", sponsored each year by the Hamilton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Sergeant K. Skerrett of the Hamilton Police Dept. was the guest speaker at one meeting, and Mr. Davies frequently talks to the club on common road troubles and their remedies.

The club members trust that by promoting safe driving, Delta will keep a good name in highway safety.

Bowling Club

Bowling was held again this year at the "Skyway Lanes" every Monday at 2 p. m. This year it was recognized as a school activity, all difficulties with the Central Executive being smoothed out. The executive consisted of President Wayne Gate, Vice-President Gary Spoar and Treasurer Vicky Seeburger. Because of his position as the school vice-president, Wayne Gate vacated the leadership in favour of Gary Spoar. The members were divided among eight teams, whose captains were: Gary Spoar, Jim Muir, Bob Lee, Rich Belluz, Bob Brown, George Lane, Jim Wentworth, and Bob Harrison. The teacher-counsellor was Mr. Ahrens, who graciously accepted the job even though his schedule was already well filled. At the beginning of the year there was a good turn-out; but, owing to the lack of student interest and participation after the Christmas exams, bowling had to be cancelled.

Thanks to the few students who faithfully supported bowling to the last week!

r. A. Woods, I. Smith, G. Forbes, W. Sowran, H. Vredeveld, Shapka, J. McMillan, Doug Wood, B. Holmes.

Cadet Corps and Rifle Team

The Cadet Corps and Rifle Team have been idle so far this year. Only two teacher officers are left in Delta; Glendale has two. Dr. Price was asked to arrive at a solution. As of January, no solution. Cadets this year have, however, taken part in two auditoriums, a Remembrance Day and a Tri-Service programme.

Art Work Shop

After a number of disappointing seasons, the old Art Club was replaced this year by the more successful Art Work Shop.

It was decided to limit club membership to twelve active members, with a waiting list ready to replace any uninterested artist. Because each member fears losing his place with the group, he is inclined to aim for regular attendance.

One of the club's main functions has been to provide decorations for various school dances as well as to produce posters for other school organizations.

The workshop's main achievement was an Egyptian Mural (thirteen feet by thirteen feet), complete in a record four hours. It added much colour to the Graduation Dance.

MEMORIAL TO THE ART CLUB:

The club members of 1958 collected funds for two new art show cases. They will serve as a reminder of the best days of the club. A special word of thanks should go to Mr. Allison and the Woodworking Shop, Mr. Woods and the Electrical Department, and Mr. Whyte for their help in building and installing the cases.

The Camera Club

Under the supervision of Mr. Lewis, the Delta Camera Club has been privileged to capture on film memorable events at dances, sport activities, and novelty projects such as the "Sadie Hawkins Day" that were promoted in our school.

Arlene Dawson, the club's secretary, arranged a shooting trip to Gage Park as well as to the Proctor and Gamble Company in Hamilton. Many of the members obtained unique and unusual pictures of various machines and materials that were employed in the manufacture of the finished products.

We certainly enjoyed the airplane flight that circled Hamilton and enabled us to shoot some interesting pictures of our fair city. This flight was arranged by Ron Widdifield.

The more experienced members opened special classes, in which new members were instructed in the fine art of developing pictures and negatives.

The increase in membership of our club certainly shows that a photographic hobby is not only an exciting but also a practical way to earn some extra money.

Red Cross

1960-61 was a great year for the Red Cross Committee at Delta. We started it off with the very successful "Delta Beanie Day", at which time almost every student wore a beanie. Result: almost eight hundred beanies were sold.

On October 31 the Red Cross, along with the Current Affairs Club, dressed in Halloween costumes to raise enough money to adopt an orphan and Delta thus became a foster parent. At the termination of the November exams, the "Pizza Prance" was held. The profits from this dance went to buy toys for the Hamilton United Services, which gave the toys out at Christmas to needy children.

During the year donations were sent to Care, Red Cross Crippled Children's Fund, the Mountain Sanatorium, and the Red Cross Dental Aid Fund.

On behalf of the Red Cross, I would like to thank all the students of Delta for their support, and I hope that their support will continue in the years to come.

Senior Executive

One day late in September, at a meeting in room 216, someone in the crowd said, "Quid faciamus?", and was immediately answered by Miss Snell, "Concilium constituere debemus."; Miss Plewman, "Nous devrions faire un comité."; and Mr. Stevenson, "163 x $2.00 . . .".

And so, it came to pass that on that day was born the Senior Executive for 1960-61.

This inexperienced but devout crew managed to turnout what was acclaimed to be "the most stupendous, amazing Grad-Dance and Banquet ever held within these hallowed halls." Even the Montgomery team deigned to risk denting their fins in city traffic just to attend this magnificent affair.

A "casual" dance, 'The Sahara Swing' was held the next night. The group then retired until "Grad-Pin" time, when it was again forced into action.

This was a most successful Senior Executive.

Chess Club

This year, Delta's chess club got off to a slow start, because of the shift system and the loss of a couple of good players who graduated. The membership generally has remained constant, consisting of a few new players from the lower grades.

Our teacher-counsellor is Mr. Kornelsen, and the officers are president, Bill Budnark; vice-president, John Valdmanis; treasurer, Wayne Powel, and secretary, Helmut Mueller.

We appreciate Mr. Forrests's allowing the chess club to use his room for our regular meetings, both this year and last.

Because of a slow start no tournaments have been arranged with any other schools, but tournaments will be arranged within the club to find the top players.

When the school returns to the regular day system, the noon-hours will be used for playing.

Many of the players are new this year, but under the guidance of our teacher and the senior players most of the members are performers of fairly good calibre.

In the future we hope to have a larger turnout, with the result of a better club for our school.

Math Club

This year, under the leadership of Mr. Kornelsen, a new organization was formed. Mr. Kornelsen desired to give the students a clearer and broader conception of the professions in which mathematics plays a part, as well as give us some idea of the advanced forms of mathematics.

He arranged to have people come to speak to the Mathematics Club, and he also arranged visits to places where mathematics is used and taught. A Chartered Accountant came and gave a talk on the mathematical background and training required to become a C.A. A few weeks later the Math Club went to MacMaster University, where three mathematics professors outlined and explained the content of the math courses taught there. At the conclusion of their lectures, we toured the new Engineering Building. The Math Club went to a demonstration given by Mr. Wilkinson of the business machines most commonly found in commerce. The head of the "Quality Control" Department at Dafasco also came to speak to us about the practical applications of Probability and Statistics.

Youth For Christ

This year at Delta, the Youth for Christ Club made its appearance as an off-shoot of the Bible Club of former years. The club functions in order to provide a balance in the students' school life by offering a religious side to the already scholastic, athletic and social functions.

Attendance this year has been far from record-breaking, but those who have attended have enjoyed debates, panel discussions, films, speakers, music, and a few parties. Delta again sported a quiz team, comprised of six members who compete against teams from other high schools. Results at present are unknown and unrevealed.

It is the hope of most of our members that in the future the Y.F.C. Club will increase to become an interesting and vital part of Delta school life.

Library Club

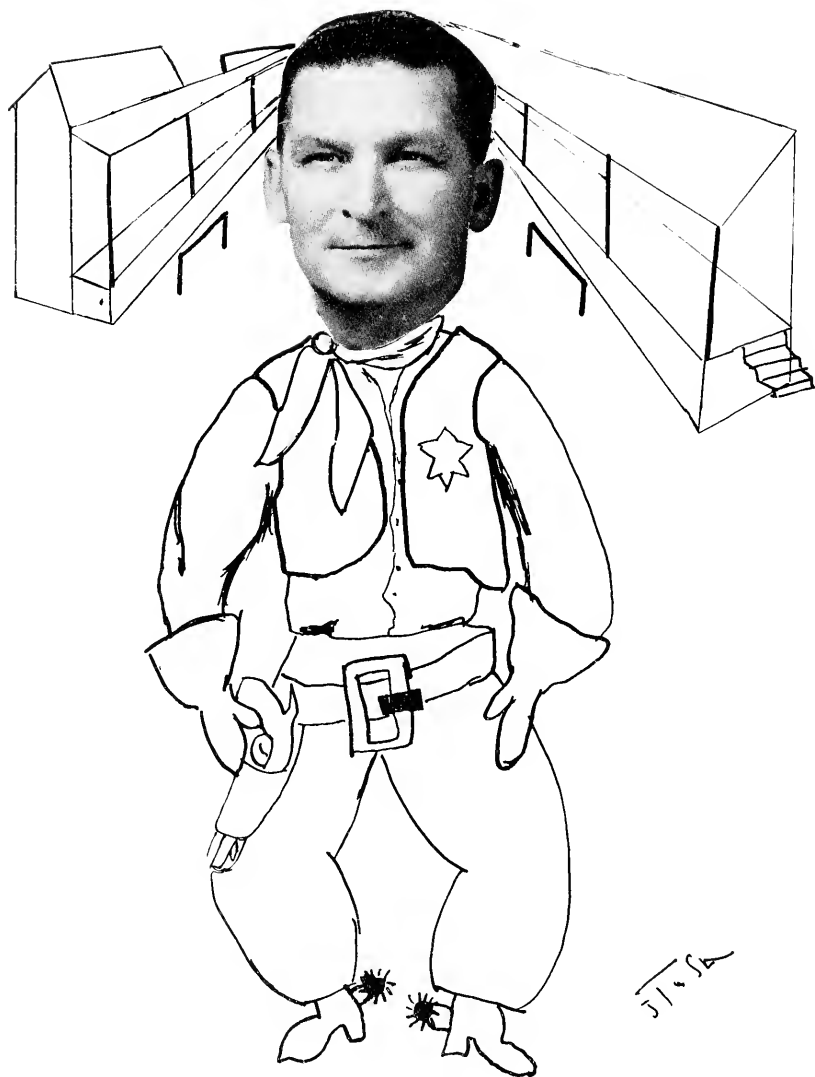

Under the guidance of Mrs. Coster, the club has had a very successful, instructive year. The forty members have worked hard to provide an efficient, co-operative library service. Our new members soon learn that there is a great deal of difficult and time-consuming work involved in operating a library, but they, as well as the older members, find satisfaction in the work and are duly rewarded -- with Junior and Senior Badges in the ninth and tenth grades, pin and guard in the eleventh and ring in the twelfth -- if they have put in the required number of hours of service. This year the highest award, the Library Club ring, was won by Elizabeth Lawryk and Sandra Lewis.

Our delayed Christmas bowling party was held on January 28th, with refreshments served afterward at the home of Lynn Laidlaw, with the Social Committee assisting the hostess.

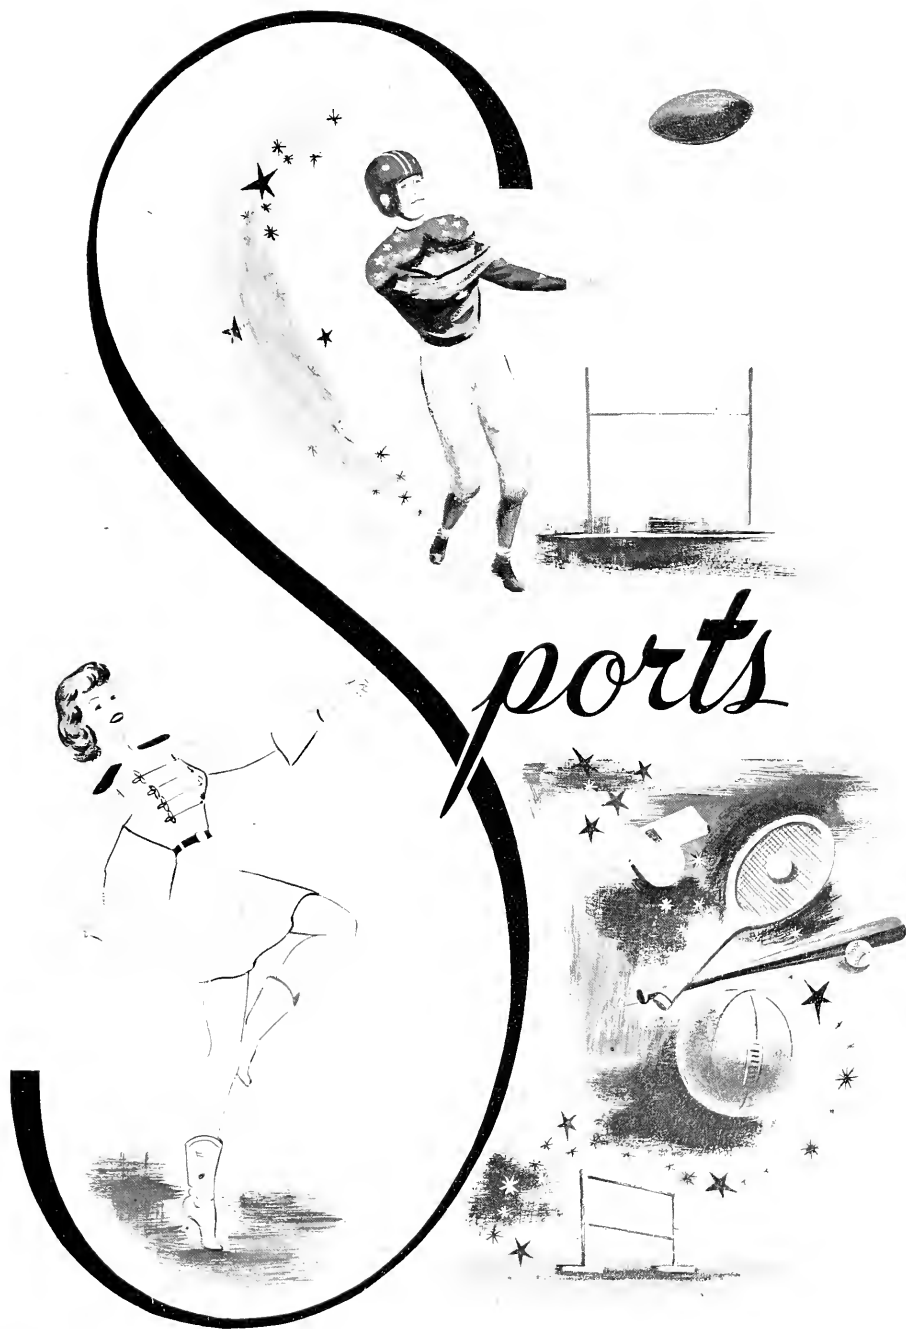

The officers elected for the year 1960-1961 are as follows: Past-President, Marilyn Hodgson; President, Elizabeth Lawryk; Vice President, Ghislaine Colenbrander; Recording Secretary, Joyce Hamilton; Corresponding Secretary Shirley Meikle; Treasurer, Gail Robertson; Social Committee, Roseanne Tonus, Christine Brown; Representative to Publications Committee, Gwen Crawford.

Boy's Athletic Committee

Fred Boehmfeld, this year's B.A.C. chairman, has added new life to Delta's hallowed halls. The rhythm band, comprised of the 'all-stars', during campaign week and during the football season showed that the much-sought-after DELTA SPIRIT was resurrected. Even the rest of the B.A.C. has been led into showing an occasional display of enthusiasm.

The B.A.C. also has introduced and put into practice several new ideas this year. The car parades, with a real hep 'bandwagon', an athletic bulletin board in the cafeteria, floor hockey games with the CENTRAL S.S. Boys' Athletic Association and our own Central Executive, a volleyball game with the G.A.C. and 'two sports' auditorium, to mention a few, have been products of the B.A.C.'s 'brainstorms'. Who knows? Maybe next year the B.A.C. will hold the GREY CUP game on the back campus, invite the NEW YORK YANKEES over for a basketball game!

The executive has two experienced hands in Doug (German) Barry, our vice-chairman, and Eric (Money-bags) Carlstrom, our faithful treasurer. Jack (Waterpolo) Brokenshire, our archivist; Carl (Drumstick) Young is our secretary; and our beloved chairman, Fred (Doughnuts) Boehmfeld, with an iron hand conducts the meeting, presided over by Mr. Johnson.

Girls' Athletic Committee

NORMA STIPSITS, the G.A.C. Chairman, runs the meetings in true parliamentary fashion. She initiated the practice of giving refreshments to visiting teams.

MICHELLE BAR, the Vice-Chairman, LYN POWELL, the Secretary, and JAN WHITE, the Treasurer, are all enjoying immensely their first year on the committee.

DONNA SIMS, the Cheerleader Manager, takes a great interest in furthering the position of girls' sports.

DONNA McCORMACK, The Camp Representative, suggested the idea of having a girls' hockey team. JENNIFER SECOR, the Badminton Representative, organized the G.A.C.'s auditorium.

RENEE WHEELER, the Swimming Representative, has not done much this year because the club has not been active. MARGE WALERK, in charge of Girls' Track, is arranging for her club to compete in more meets this year.

SIGRID SMITH represents Grade XIII, while JOAN EDWARDS does the same for Grade XII.

SHARON NOBLE is the Grade XI Representative. She is the official Archivist and she assists with badminton.

BARB BOWYER and CAROLE CHAPPLE, the Grade X Representatives, look after the point cards. The Grade IX Representatives, are TAMMY KORCHAK and JUNE DEAN.

As in former years MRS. MONTGOMERY was the extremely helpful teacher counsellor. MISS GILCHRIST, MISS RAPSAVAGE, and she spent much spare time in supervising extra-curricular sports. The G.A.C. thanks them very much.

Delta Cheerleaders 1960-1961

This year our ten Delta cheerleaders, shouting the ever-popular "Let's fight, Red and White!", saw a junior football team just barely miss the championship. Although the loss was heartbreaking for the girls, they kept up their fine spirit to encourage our two basketball teams. Everyone is sure that their enthusiasm gave much needed help to our boys.

Special thanks go out to Sue Cumpson, Judy Leedale, and Pat Stricker, who have completed their second year of cheering. Also appreciation is extended to the first year cheerleaders, Frances Ball, Gloria Stakaruck, Norma Stipsits, and Renee Wheeler, who are graduating; and Sandy Anderson, Noreen Connors, and Gayle Gregory, who will be back next year.

To Donna Sims, cheerleader manager, credit is also due for she did a great job of planning and training our squad.

Miss Thompson proved, as well, to be a wonderful teacher counsellor with whom it was a pleasure to be associated.

And let's not forget all those loyal Delta fans who showed their fine spirit, whether in victory or defeat. The Delta cheerleaders extend their sincerest thanks to all those fans who got behind us and really "stood up and hollered".

Grade 11 All-Star Basketball

NEW IN NUMBER - STRONG IN SPIRIT

This year's team was composed of nine players who were faithful and willing to do their best to uphold the high tradition and sportsmanship of Delta.

Westdale played host to Delta in the most important game of the season, Delta's record was three wins and one loss, Delta's defeat. The game was hard fought to the very last second. A special mention should be given to the guards who played their best game of the season holding Westdale's high score nineteen points. The final score was 18-19.

Although the girls lost the Interscholastic championship by one point they excelled in exhibition games together with the grade 12's, grade 11 formes. The members of a senior team who have been the S.O.S.S.A. champions for the past two years. Their exhibition schedule included a game with Waterdown.

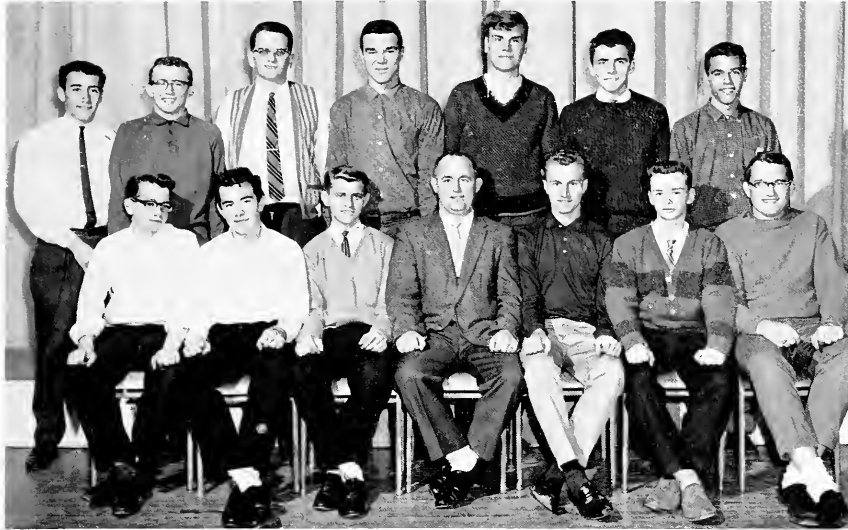

For this game the combination of grade 11 and 12's teamed up to display their skill and all-around ability. Delta's halls rang with cheers of victory as the final whistle blew.

This winning trend extended itself against Loretto Academy. Loretto literally invaded our school bringing with them their very enthusiastic supporters but even their spirit and determination did not help as Delta overcame the visitors.

To bring the season to a stirring climax, Delta travelled to Hamilton Teacher's College where they engaged the Intermediate team. It was a short struggle, the ball changing hands several times until the first whistle indicated a 27-27 tie.

The grade 11 All-Star team wishes to thank their coach Miss Rapsavage for her enthusiasm and encouragement. Without her support the team wouldn't have accomplished what it did.

Senior Waterpolo

The year 1961 saw Delta's senior waterpolo team uphold their championship, when they defeated Central by a 5 to 3 margin in the championship game. The team had no serious threat all season, as they breezed through the league without a loss.

The roster saw Terry Mykes in goal, who had two shut-outs all season, and was a great asset to the team. On defense the team had Bob Burnett and Ron Lawson who were both strong players who could throw very accurate passes. The wings had Roy Gunell and Ken Comber who were both strong swimmers, and Roy was the second top scorer on the team with nine goals all season. The rover was Carl Banek who had the strongest shot in the league, and was a threat to all other goal-tenders in the league. The centre man was Larry Brokenshire who was the top scorer of the league with twelve goals in all. Our other players were almost as strong as the first team. Lychuk and Gibson could be placed on either wing or defense and were both good swimmers. The last two players were McManus and Harris, two good players.

The team was coached again by Mr. H. Kornelson who had both junior and senior teams in good physical shape this year. He was assisted by student coach, Jack Brokenshire, a past player with the team.

As stated by Hamilton's waterpolo authority, Mr. Jimmy Thompson, this year's senior team was the strongest waterpolo team he had ever seen come out of the high school league.

Delta Junior Waterpolo-1961

Junior Waterpolo - 1961, like football was a very well balanced league.

Delta, in particular, was a success story as they started the season with seven unknowns and, under the direction of Mr. Kornelson, and Jack Brokenshire came within a hairs breadth of lifting another championship for Delta.

Delta	3	Central	9

In semi-finals probably the longest in the history of Hamilton waterpolo, we up-ended the Mounteneers by a score of 3-2. The Hill-toppers moved out 2-0 on two goals by Scott Smiley. John Brooks got one back and Yours Truly in the last minute of play in the fourth quarter tied it up. Seven long periods of over-time in which the miraculous player Rick Giles in goal and Bob Lewington helped to hold off Hill Park, Brooks countered in the seventh period about quarter way through to bring the flag home for Delta.

In the championship game which Delta after running Central into the ground for three frames came out on the short end of a 3-2 score John Brooks and Eric Till countered as Jim Jones, Tom Flint, and Jim Skinner contributed greatly to uphold Delta's honour even though going down to defeat.

Junior Basketball

Although not one of the most successful seasons at Delta, it was one of the most exciting. Several close games were played such as the game against Central, when the team was down one point with a minute left. With the time running out the team surged ahead by one point and then controlled the ball till time ran out. Another such game was against BARTON when the score was 39 to 38 for Delta with 2 minutes left. A quick basket by Barton put Delta down one point but with the two foul shots and a sudden lay-up Delta forged ahead by 3 points and that is how the game ended. Other close games were not as successful, as the time against Glendale when the team lost by 5 points. The coach during the 60-61 season at Delta was Mr. R. Scott a math teacher here, who is playing in the Ryerson church league. During the Christmas holidays the junior team played in a tournament in Kitchener. They played 2 games, one in the morning and one in the evening. If they won the second game they would stay the night and play in the semi-finals the next day. The opposite happened and Delta won the morning game but lost the afternoon game. With only 4 of the team leaving a strong squad is expected next season.

Here is a few of the players and their best shots - DAVE NASBY: jump shot; TED NELSON: jump shot; GARY PAGE: two-hand set; BOB SOKOLOSKI: jump shot; FRED LAIDMAN: set shot; RICHARD VEEVERS: jump shot; DOUG PORTER: set shot; GREG MUNCE: one-hand set; STUART THOMAS: jump shot.

Senior Basketball

Not enjoying one of their best seasons, the Delta Senior Red Raiders, 1960-61, realized their true potentialities and indicated on paper, as well as in a late-season rally that better things are yet to come. With all but two of the boys in their first year of senior, a valuable amount of experience was acquired. The coach, Mr. Macdonald, a fine basketball player himself, who instilled in the boys a desire to play, will soon see all his efforts rewarded. He was given competent assistance by Mr. Scott, the junior coach, and Mr. Lowden.

The team's only victory came in a contest with Central, but it lost 4 of the other seven encounters by margins of less than six points. Thus, although the boys suffered many bad breaks, they learned from their own mistakes.

Composing the team were Dave Hajas, Peter Tarvainen, Wayne Madden, all of whom played in their last year and who provided a necessary spark to the team; Trevor Madden, Sheldon Katz, fine shooters, who will be looking forward to next year; Bill Lewington, Bob Madden, Jack Shinehoft, Mel Eisthen, who contributed spirit and desire as well as their own individual abilities; Bruce Harvey, who joined later in the season and who will value the experience obtained; and Wayne Gate, left midway in the year to devote more time to other endeavours and who were greatly missed. All in all, one great desire was realized: a love to play basketball.

Delta Boy's Hockey Team

This year saw the boys' hockey team starting from scratch. The only players from last year's squad were Bob Harrison, John Rekrut, and Bob Williston. This meant that a completely new team had to be assembled, trained, and moulded into a fighting hockey machine. Mr. Dinning took those raw recruits and did that very thing.

Mr. Bill Dinning, after an illustrious career, refused to hang up his skates after twenty-one years in the O.H.A. He has a wealth of hockey knowledge and the happy knack of bringing out the best in young hockey players.

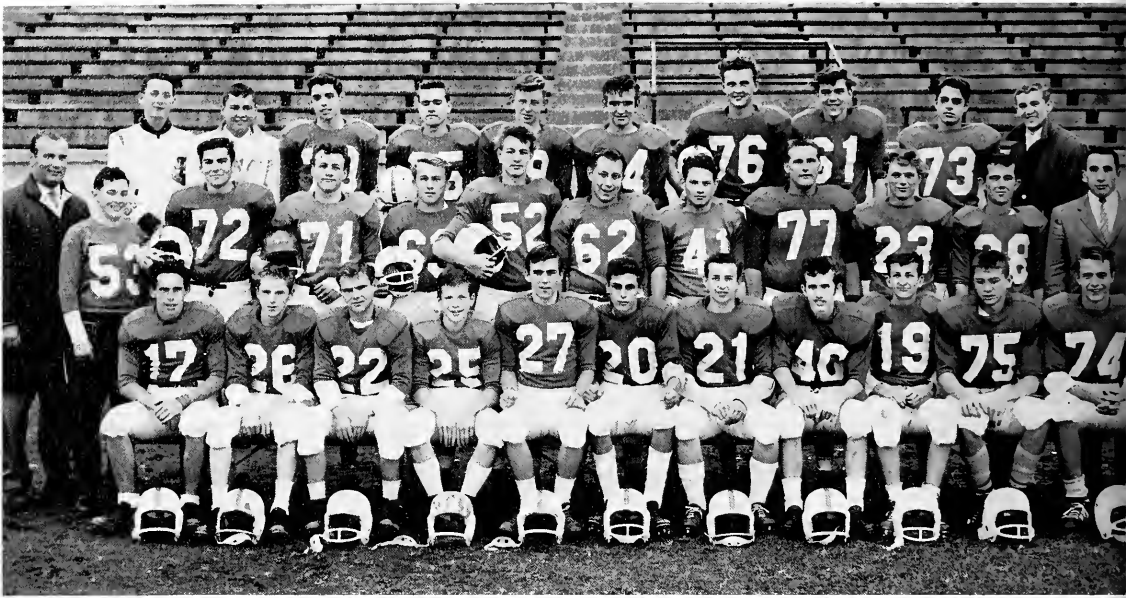

Mr. Don Ahrens is a real find for any school. He led his junior football team into the City finals this year but he was not satisfied with this. He took on the hockey team and worked his heart out. Mr. Ahrens has such a great will to win that his very presence instills the same desire in the players.

Jerry Dion ... came late in the season and plays a steady game in the net; Bob Harrison ... top scorer on the team (a sneaky shot); Tim Morrison ... has all the ingredients of a great hockey player; Bob Williston ... has a good shift and sets up a nice play; John Rekrut ... one of the fastest skaters on the team and always digging; Brian Knight ... overflows with desire and drive; Phil Woodworth ... plays a steady game up the middle; Steve March ... skates well and digs the corners; Clyde Spearing ... smallest player on the team with plenty of desire; George Thomas ... plays a steady game on the wing; John Negro ... one of the best defense men in the league; John Goldsmith ... rugged and shows no fear; Kit Dinning ... Captain and policeman of the team; Rus Evens ... trainer and story-teller.

Junior Football

This past year proved very successful for our junior squad. Although beaten by Cathedral in the finals at Civic Stadium, we compiled a record of four wins, one loss and one tie. Much of the credit for our success goes to our coaches, Messrs. Ahrens and McQueen, who built us from a completely inexperienced squad to a fine, spirited team. We were credited with the Most Valuable Player, half-back Ed Stodulka; and All-Star line-man Ron Bridgeland, who will return next year along with a few others. Unfortunately, Ed suffered a broken leg in the last game of the season against Hill Park on the way to his ninth touchdown.

In the final against Cathedral we played our hearts out, but their size and strength proved too much. But, with the experience gained this season, next year the story will be different.

Senior Football 1960-61

If one word could be used to describe Delta's boys' sports this year, it would be "frustration".

The senior football team would indeed fall into this classification, because in a season of six league games we managed to scrape up only one win. We were a bit more fortunate in our exhibition schedule as we posted victories over Waterdown and Ridley College.

Our team was blessed with good coaches, fairly good players, lots of team spirit -- but, unfortunately, no points!

Our coaches, Mr. Watson, Mr. Dodds, and Mr. Kennedy, and our team manager Mr. Wood all did a great job during the season for the work that they did put into the team is certainly to be complimented.

We do also owe a great deal of thanks to our student managers, Ron Purdon, Pete Chapman, and Andy Bily.

Such key players as Dave Donat, Vic Stretkiewicz, and Vic Ranelli were lost to the team because of injuries, and we know that this was a great factor in our poor season.

Next year should be a different story, since most of the team will be returning with a year's experience under their belts.

Some of the highlights of the year: John Rekrut and his numerous injuries; John Walker and all his noise; Wayne Gate and his jokes; Dave Hajas and his M.V.P. award; Wayne Madden and his elbows; Lou Marcuzzi and his big smile; John Smye and his black eye; Trevor Madden and his long passes; Mr. Kennedy and his exercises; Ken Cooper and his hair; Terry Simpson's change on the bus; Ray Winchle and his stomach; the boys' on the bench and their front seat view of the cheerleaders.

Track and Field 1960

In the 91st Highlanders Meet, the mile relay was won by the Delta team of Bob Sisler, Al Duncan, Felton Hill, and Brad Hill. Felton Hill also placed 2nd in the Boys' 880 yd. race, and Al Duncan took 3rd place in the Junior Mile.

In the pre-Easter Big 4 meet, held on the back campus, teams captained by Al Duncan, Felton Hill, Bob Sisler, and Brad Hill competed with Brad's team scoring the highest total points. Feature of this meet was the 2 1/2 mile medley relay race.

Our School Championships, with well over 100 competitors, saw Wayne Titian, Russ Evans, and Felton Hill capture the Junior, Intermediate, and Senior individual championships. Records went to Al Duncan in the Senior 880 (2:02.4) and Mile (4:35.3) runs; Bob Sisler in the Senior 220 (23.0); and Wayne Titian in tying the Junior Hurdle record (17.9).

In H. I. A. C. competition, Delta was second only to Central in total points. Felton Hill was outstanding in the Senior division, winning 3 events for the 4th year in a row and setting a new 880 record. Russ Evans won the Senior Mile and 2 Mile races. Although still of intermediate age, Bob Chapman won the Intermediate 880 and Mile along with running a 220 on the 880 relay team. Wayne Titian set a new record in the Junior Hurdle race. Other outstanding performers for Delta were Brad Hill, Bob Sisler, Jon Uhlinger, Trevor Madden, Ed Stodulka, Frank Day, Lloyd Peterson, and Adam Salka.

At the Quaker Relays in Newmarket, the medley relay team, (110, 220, 440, 880), consisting of Dan Cucierean, Bob Sisler, Brad Hill, and Felton Hill smashed the old record by 3 seconds.

In the Ontario Interscholastic Relay Carnival, teams from Delta took one first and three seconds out of the six events in which they were entered. The winning team in Senior 440 yard relay was composed of Bob Sisler, Doug Heyworth, Felton Hill, and Brad Hill.

Delta's road runners, led by Al Duncan, Russ Evans, Felton Hill, Bob Chapman, Dave Bell, and Jim McIsaac, had an outstanding season, winning both the Lucky Stewart and the National Steel Car 2 1/2 mile races.

CROSS-COUNTRY - 1960

Early in September about 40 boys turned out to try to maintain the high standard set by former Delta cross-country teams. As competition became tougher, this number dwindled to approximately 20.

Mr. Wilkinson, in order to keep interest at a high level, arranged meets with Saltfleet and Hill Park at Gage Park; with Westdale at Churchill Park; and with Glendale, Barton and Hill Park at Hill Park. Delta, although they did not win many individual races, gave a true account of themselves by winning most of the team competitions.

The Burlington Legion Road Race was the first contest of the year for Delta's distance runners. In a field of approximately 100, Bob Chapman was 9th, Jim McIsaac 29th, and Gary Brewer 39th.

The Anavic Road Race was the next big event. In the midget half of the race Delta's young team, composed of John Kolodziejewski, (23), Peter Petryszyn (30), Don Ruddle (31), and Brian Manorek (33), finished well-grouped and thus promise to give Delta a fine team in the years to come. In the junior race, the Delta team finished second to a very strong Western Tech squad. Bob Chapman led our aggregation, placing fifth in the very tough field. Al Duncan, the former Delta ace now attending Michigan State University, was third.

Two days later Bob Chapman and Jim McIsaac journeyed to Guelph to compete in the Guelph Thanksgiving Day Road Race, and in almost the same field as in the Anavic, Bob Chapman again excelled, placing fifth. Jim McIsaac had to retire from the race with stomach trouble.

In the final road race of the season for Delta's runners, the Joe Crystalside 2 1/2 mile Road Race, Bob Chapman was 9, Russ Evans 11, Phil Woodworth 12, and Gary Brewer 17. In the midget section John Kolodziejewski finished 10.

Returning to the more comfortable grass footing, the Delta Harriers held their school championships at Gage Park under the direction of Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. Scott. The junior division was won by John Kolodziejewski, with Don Ruddle second and Peter Petryszyn third. The intermediate division was won by Bob Chapman with Gary Brewer second and Bill Lewington third. Russ Evans won the senior event, with Phil Woodworth second and Jim McIsaac third.

The big meet of the year for Delta was next, the HIAC cross-country championships held at McMaster University. In the junior event Delta captured both the individual and the team championships. John Kolodziejewski crossed the finish line first, closely followed by Peter Petryszyn (3), D. Ruddle (6), and B. Manorek (7). The only new record was made in the intermediate division, with Bob Chapman breaking the old record by 13 seconds. Delta did not capture the intermediate team title, but outstanding performances were turned in by Gary Brewer (10), Bill Lewington (12), and R. Vevers (23).

In the senior division Delta captured the team title, with Phil Woodworth (4), Russ Evans (5), Jim McIsaac (6), and a converted sprinter Brad Hill (7). Delta captured the overall team title, beating their nearest rival, Hill Park, by 16 points.

In a new meet this year the HIAC schools were soundly beaten by the SOSSA (zone 1) schools. The former were handicapped by the upcoming examinations, as many of the better runners were studying. In this meet Bob Chapman broke his own record, set a week earlier over this course, by six seconds.

Boys' Volleyball 60-61

Last year, Volleyball gained a little recognition at Delta. After finishing second to Central the previous year, Delta managed to defeat Hill Park in the finals to become the Interscholastic Volleyball Champions in '60.

Under the capable coaching of Mr. Laxton, our team defeated the powerful Hill Park squad in the best-of-three finals, and walked away with the coveted trophy. Members of last year's team were: Bill Knox, (Capt.); Wayne Madden, Albert Wilson, Walter Flypiw, Ed Lainson, Gary Smith, Wayne Shipton, Dave Donat.

This year, although most of last year's team was lost because of graduation and the new age limit, Delta again had a fine team. Mr. Laxton added a few new faces to the team from Hamilton's Canusa Games team, and, thanks to a fine team spirit, Delta again had a successful season.

Thank you for your support, and special thanks to Mr. Laxton, our coach.

Badminton Club 1959-1960

The boys' badminton club played friendly matches against Saltfleet and Hill Park during the season. Delta won against Saltfleet but lost to Hill Park the powerhouse in the league at present.

The city and district championships were staged by Dundas and held at Westdale. Delta did not quite live up to its previous team standard but did come third in total points out of the nine schools competing.

Doug Harrison was the big commer, emerging as the Boys' singles champion for the second year in a row.

The boys who represented Delta were: Doug Harrison, Sam Cioran, Wes Nash, Doug Berry, Stu Pugsley, Tosh Nanba, Boris Smirniw, Arch McMillan, Eric Carlstrom, Ed Ben.

Rowing 1960

Under the guidance of Delta's most under-rated coach, Ted Wilcox, the rowing team from Delta started out with inexperienced oarsmen. Mr. Wilcox with the help of Jim Reiser his assistant came up with the biggest surprise of the season. To an extremely small crew consisting of Vic Skretkowicz, Pete Shuttleworth, Ian Smith, Bobby Smith, Alex Roberston and Garry Needham with Ron Lawson as coxswain he added Murry Hoffman and Louis Narcuzi. When the Canadian Championships arrived we were cleanly beaten by top St. Catherines and American crews.

In the Hamilton high school regatta Delta crews rowed away with all but one of the races. Their wins were in the heavy eight, heavy four, 135 eight, and 135 four. We lost to central in the 145 eight in a very close race.

This year we are starting out with fifteen new and five experienced oarsmen. Alex Robertson and Ian Smith began training the crew in Mid-February so that the coaches can apply more time to technical training when the season opens.

Although none of the all-star teams won a championship, they tried hard. The Grade IX team, coached by Miss Henry, placed second. The Grade X and XI teams were coached by Mrs. Eves. Barb Carlson's Grade X team came second, while Jan Budnark's team took third place among the Grade XI's. Miss Gilchrist coached Norma Stipsit's Grade XII team. Unfortunately, they failed to place in the finals.

In Intramural Volleyball, the team of Gayle Bradley of 9D11 came first among the IX's. Sharon Noble of 10D10 was captain of the winning Grade X team. The Grade XI champions were led by Diane Hamilton of XIG5. Marilyn Hampson of 12G6 headed the winning Grade XII team.

Credit should go to all the girls who participated this year on the all-star teams. With just a bit more luck the winning margins of the very close scores might have been on our side. Since not enough Grade 12 and 13 girls came to the try-outs, a combined team of the two grades was formed. Although none of the teams brought back the championship to Delta, special acclamation should go to the Grade 11 team which, in losing the final game by one point, attained second place. In five exhibition games, Delta fared very well. The game with Hamilton Teacher's College ended in a tie. In the matches against Loretto Academy at Loretto the Juniors won and the Seniors lost; however, in the next game against Loretto at Delta and in our match with Waterdown both our Junior and Senior teams came through with overwhelming victories -- too bad they didn't count!

The results of the League games were as follows: Grade 9: won--3; lost--2; Grade 10: won 4; lost--1; Grade 11: won--2; lost--2; Grade 12: won--0; lost--3.

GOODMINTON, 1961

Grade 9 students participate in an interesting game called Goodminton. The basic rules of the game are like Volleyball, except that the equipment used consists of a ping-pong bat and an outdoor badminton bird. The enthusiasm shown is quite remarkable and enables six players to play on each side at one time. Organized games for a team championship create a competitive spirit.

Badminton is a sport which may be played by four (doubles) or two persons (singles) on a court with the assistance of a racquet and a feather bird. A game of skill, or strategy and of fun.

Before relating our activities during the year, I would like to introduce our members: Arlene Wright, Marilyn Hodgson, Sylvia Bellingham, Carol Rowbottom, Diane Barnes, Donna Sims, Lorraine Soltys, Ruth Sirman, Frances Ball, Sharon Johnson, Jennifer Secor, Marg. Waucer, Norma Stipsits, Pat Hampson, Sigrid Smith, Pat Strecker, Renee Wheeler, Marilyn Hapson, Zara McMillan, Joan Alexander, Betty Madill, Lois Emery, Evelyn Tierney, Shirley Brown, and Donna McCormack, an import from the Junior Badminton Club. Of the names above, the last 20 girls supported our club with regular attendance. "Thanks girls."

During the course of the year the girls were battling for the top 10 positions on the challenge board, the reason (girls always have reasons) being that those girls would represent Delta in the Friendly Invitation Tournaments held against the other high schools.

Near the beginning of the year we were invited to Westdale Secondary School, where, it seems, all Hamilton and district schools were invited. Here we met old acquaintances and made new ones.

In the month of February, Saltfleet High invited Delta's senior girls' and boys' top 10 for a friendly tourney. We return invited Saltfleet to our school the following week.

On April 6 we were host to Hill Park High.

During the month of April and May the girls have been participating in the singles and doubles tournament. The winner of the singles event was Pat Omatsu, who had a challenging opponent to defeat Judy Nasby. The doubles winners were Marilyn Hampson and Zara McMillan, who captured their title after a close shave with Pat Omatsu and Renee Wheeler. Congratulations, girls, and "hats off" to those who participated.

The Interscholastic Badminton Team was chosen in April. This year it was held at Westdale on May 2, 3, 5, and 6. The team members were chosen after consideration of their abilities on the challenge board and the out-come of a round robin. Team members were: Z. McMillan, P. Omatsu, J. Nasby, L. Emery, P. Hampson, M. Walker, J. Secor, S. Brown, and D. McCormack.

In the Interscholastic singles event L. Emery was knocked out in the elimination round, J. Nasby in the quarter finals, P. Omatsu in the semi-finals and Z. McMillan gave O. Griffen of Hill Park a hard fight for the Girls' Singles Championship. Girls' Doubles event; D. McCormack and S. Brown; M. Walker and J. Secor; P. Hampson and L. Emery were defeated in the elimination and quarter finals, while Z. McMillan and P. Omatsu lost out in the semi-finals against Westdale. Girls' mixed: J. Secor and A. Carlston; M. Waucer and Z. McMillan; D. McCormack and D. Berry were defeated in the elimination and quarter finals. J. Nasby and W. Nash came through for a hard-fought semi-finals battle against Hill Park mixed--although we had no winners in the Girls' Division we helped place Delta in third position among the Hamilton and District High Schools.

The Girls' Badminton Club of 59-60 introduced several new ideas which are very successful and, I hope, maybe introduced to the club members of 60-61. They were as follows: (1) All girls had to pay a 10¢ fee per week to aid the high cost of birds. (2) Club started from 6:45 to 9:00 with one hour from 8:00 to 9:00 to practice mixed doubles with the boys' club. (3) A new challenge board ruling that if absent three successive weeks the player would have to forfeit her position whether challenged or not. (4) Purchasing of three trophies to be kept by winners of the singles and doubles intramural tournament.

With more than half of our senior girls leaving this year, Delta will need new supporters to make the team. So come on, girls; you have an invitation for Monday nights at 7 p.m. in September 60-61.

Swimming Club 1959-1960

The swimming club began at the end of September. On Wednesdays from one o'clock until two o'clock, the waters of the Municipal Pool provided a training place for girls who wanted to learn how to swim and for those who wished to improve their ability with the hope of earning future awards. The trips down to the pool were not steady because all other athletic activities took precedence over the swimming club. Unfortunately the number of members decreased as the weeks passed, but generally about ten girls attended each practice. The sixteenth of May was "D Day": that is, it was the day for the members to try for Red Cross Swimming Awards. The number trying was small. Sigrid Smith and Anne Murray earned Junior Awards. Jennifer Secor and Norma Stipsits earned Intermediate Awards. Perhaps some day the swimming training will aid one of these members in saving a life.

Michele Bar, Sandy Anderson, Nancy Thomas, Jean Campbell, Pam Gould.

Girls' Track 1959-1960

Under the coaching of Margaret Walker, the girls' track team trained for the Relay Carnival held at Civic Stadium on May 7. It was a cold rainy day, and luck wasn't with us. The girls had been training once a week since December, on the track above the girls' gym. Some were getting extra training at the Armories, and at the end of April they went up to McMaster on a Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday. Our "A" team consisted of Pam Gold, Nancy Thomas, Chris Pylypiuk, and Sandy Anderson. Our "B" team consisted of Marg. Walker, Sylvia Bellingham, Cheryle Begon, and Michele Bar. Our "C" team, which didn't compete, was composed of Jean Alexander, Eva Joseph, Ingrid Gladis, and Jean Campbell. We hope next year will be more successful than this year.

we think you should know what we know about teen-agers

Since Simpsons-Sears opened in 1954, we have met, talked to, trained and worked with a great many teen-agers.

What is our impression?

We think the teen-agers of to-day have a great deal to offer—among the things that inspire us most is their bright-eyed, business-like attitude, their willingness to learn, and their ability to get a job done.

These are the things we know, and like, about teen-agers . . . and these are the things that assure success in business and profession alike.

The future belongs to those who prepare for it—and many teen-agers have, by establishing a pattern of hard work and study, set their own course for the future. Some in engineering, some in a profession, some in retailing.

Retailing, with its many allied fields offers the student a world of careers—and wherever your particular talents lie, whether in buying, selling, personnel, accounting, publicity or store management, you'll find here positions-with-a-future, limited only by your own capabilities and initiative.

STEEL
SERVES YOU
BETTER

The swordsmiths of the Middle Ages fashioned their finest blades from steel. From that day to this, nothing has taken the place of steel for attractive, sturdy products that last a lifetime. It's no wonder that steel is so essential to our modern way of life!

Whenever you or your parents buy something that's made of steel, you're sure of getting more for your money...more quality, more beauty...and more years of useful service.

DOMINION FOUNDRIES AND STEEL, LIMITED
HAMILTON, CANADA

They Wanted Light On The Subject...And They Got It!

It was people with inquisitiveness and a sense of experiment in the early, struggling days of Hamilton that brought the first lighting to homes and factories.

In a little cottage on Main Street, a family that had been engaged in the work in England, produced the first sulphur match in 1830.

Then the first use of natural gas as an illuminant in Canada was in the Old Mill at Mount Albion, on the eastern part of the mountain.

The Young brothers of Hamilton took a role in it, too, by following up with the use of petroleum in the shape of a burner for the family lamp — something quite new for Canadians.

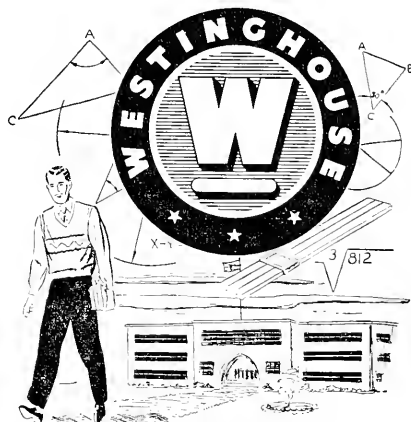

Famous in this line was Charles Willson, a chemist of York Street, who discovered acetylene gas — one of the more remarkable individual achievements in the growing town. Willson had a small room over a blacksmith shop and liked to try his talent in experiments.

THROUGH EXPERIMENT AND ORGANIZATION THE GREAT INDUSTRIAL TRIUMPHS OF HAMILTON HAVE MADE ITS NAME FAMOUS . . . WITH IT HAS GROWN THE HAMILTON SPECTATOR, NOW MORE THAN 110 YEARS OLD, AND AT A CIRCULATION FIGURE OF OVER 100,000 COPIES EVERY DAY.

Where engineers come from...

● Engineers come from High Schools, like yours. The High School student with a flair for maths and science . . . and the vision and energy to put his ability to work for himself and for Canada . . . is the successful engineer of tomorrow.

And where do Engineers go? The answer to that is easy; an engineer with talent will go a long, long way in Canada today. New demands, new advancements in engineering are making more and more opportunities for engineers in the planning and direction of Canada's expanding future. So when you're choosing a course at University, give a good long thought to Engineering.

CANADA
AND PARTNERS IN PROGRESS
STELCO

A nation's progress and wealth are linked strongly with its ability to produce basic industrial products. No product is more basic than steel, and hence no product has contributed more to Canada's progress and wealth than has Canadian steel.

In the past fifty years the Canadian population has grown from a little more than seven million to better than seventeen million, while the number of Stelco employees has, in the same period of time, grown from five thousand to almost fifteen thousand. As Canada grows, so does Stelco.

Canada has become a land of great opportunities, and at Stelco there are great opportunities for young Canadians desiring careers in steel.
